Investment strategy

The change to a more positive sentiment has now been in place since March 2009. The unprecedented stimulus added by Governments around the world has led to an improvement (or slowing decline) in economic data. Risk markets are anticipating a recovery for the global economy. In line with the strategy of being aligned with long run investment themes the Fund's asset allocation has moved towards a more bullish position. The Fund is now overweight industrial and precious metals and is also short the US dollar. Whilst this strategy proved positive over the first half of the month, retracements in the second half led to flat performance for the month.

Global Fixed Income – Falling interest rates, lower inflation expectations.

Having rallied strongly over the last 18 months, global bond markets are now factoring in an eventual recovery and an environment of higher interest rates. There are currently no strong trends in Bond markets and the Fund has reduced its exposure to zero.

Foreign Exchange – Re-weighting to growth currencies/ Growing negative sentiment towards the US dollar.

With sentiment building that last year's crisis is behind us Foreign Exchange markets have switched focus towards the growing supply of US dollars and increasing diplomatic tension between China and the US. The Fund is long the Canadian and Australian dollar and Euro versus the US dollar.

Commodities – Demand for physical assets (metals)/ shortage of supply in soft commodities.

The Fund's long exposure to metals (Gold, Silver, Platinum and Copper) added positively to performance. This was offset with losses on soft commodities (Corn, Cocoa)

Comments welcome.
